

The intent of the telephone privacy law was to protect the public from harrassing phone calls. Allowing any business for any reason to make unwanted telephone calls is in direct opposition to the intent of the telephone privacy law. Changing the law to allow some businesses to make unsolicited calls makes the entire law useless. I joined the "no-call" list to avoid all unwanted calls, not just some.